First Annual Girls' Basketball Tourney Draws Throng of Fans

WARREN DEFEATS WELLSVILLE TODAY

Lisbon Hanna Arrow Still In Running for Championship

Semi-final contests were scheduled at the Memorial building this afternoon to determine the two teams that will compete for championship honors in finals tonight of the first annual girls' basketball tournament, staged under auspices of the World War Memorial building association.

Attracted by a galaxy of effeminate hardwood talent, among the best in this section, more than 500 fans turned out for opening round battles Friday night while a still larger turnout of spectators is anticipated for tonight's finals. A consolation game between two losing semi-finalists will be played at 7:30 with finalists booked at 8:30.

Continuing competition in the tournament this morning, Warren Knolls Cleaners, victorious last night over the Salem Pennsils, defeated Wellsville Merchants, 39-21, in a hard fought second round duel. Wellsville had advanced into the second round by trouncing Salem Community Merchants, 26-20 last night.

Akron Riggs-LeMar girls advanced into the semi-finals by defeating Rogers I. G. A. ladies in a thrilling battle this morning.

The Rogers team led, 12-3, at the end of the first period, and was ahead at the close of the half and the third quarter but lost out when the visitors rallied sensationally in the last stanza.

People Pay Taxes As Banks Reopen

LISBON, March 18.—Since a number of banks in this and adjoining counties have been licensed to re-open and do business on a normal scale, a decided increase in tax collections is noted at the office of County Treasurer John C. Litty.

There is also a greater activity in filing of personal tax returns for the current year, clerks in the office of County Auditor John H. Irwin being steadily engaged in this work from the time the office opens until 4:30 in the afternoon.

Collection of December taxes will be continued indefinitely, no positive date having been announced for the closing of the December record.

Debate Murder Case

BATAVIA, O., March 18.—The jury considering the fate of John McGeehan, Marathon, accused of having killed Eddie Gansman, Cincinnati, November 27 resumed its deliberations this morning after retiring at 10:30 last night by order of Judge Charles Hite when the jurors failed to arrive at a verdict. The jury received the case at 3:15 p. m. yesterday.

PLAN MURPHY RITES MONDAY

Pioneer Sebring Resident Succumbs At Age of 65

The funeral service for William L. Murphy, 65, pioneer resident of Sebring who died at 5 a. m. Friday at his home, West Ohio ave., will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the home.

Dr. A. F. Gathery of the Wheeling W. Va. Gospel tabernacle; Rev. F. A. Lehn of the Sebring Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. C. B. Clark of the Sebring Nazarene church will be in charge. Interment will be in the O. H. Sebring mausoleum at Grandview cemetery. Friends may call Sunday afternoon and evening at the home.

Heart disease is given as the cause of Mr. Murphy's death. He had been in ill health for several months.

Mr. Murphy was born at Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 14, 1868, and went to East Liverpool with his parents at five years of age. He graduated from East Liverpool High school.

Mr. Murphy went to Sebring when it was founded and was engaged in the pottery industry with his father-in-law, O. H. Sebring. When the Citizens bank was organized there he became its cashier, which position he held for 25 years. He was associated with O. H. Sebring in the Sebring Manufacturing company and when plants of this company joined the American Chinaware corporation he became treasurer and a director.

He was a member of the Sebring Methodist Episcopal church in which he was superintendent of the Sunday school for several years, and was also active in the Sebring Camp Meeting association, which he and Mrs. Murphy founded.

Besides his widow, survivors include a son, Edwin T. of Cleveland; a brother, Harry E. of Sebring; and three sisters, Mrs. George Gilchrist of Santa Monica, Cal., Mrs. Ella Kober and Miss Olive Murphy of Canton.

Mrs. Laura B. Murphy, East State st., is a sister-in-law of Mr. Murphy, and Frank Sebring, Highland ave., is a cousin of Mrs. Murphy.

Camp Complimented During Inspection

Rev. Charles A. Reed of Youngstown complimented Philip Triem camp No. 43, Sons of Union Veterans, for its work when he conducted the annual inspection Friday evening at the hall, East State st.

Rev. Reed is serving his second year as commander of the Youngstown camp and is Ohio division chaplain. Three members of the Youngstown camp accompanied him and each gave a brief talk.

S. N. Van Blaricom, member of the local camp, gave an interesting illustrated talk on "What Became of the Money." Lunch was served at the social period.

Special Music At 'Buy America' Meet

Special music will be a feature when civic and service clubs, manufacturers, workers and others meet Tuesday evening at the Memorial building to discuss a "Buy American" movement, sponsored by Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion.

Everett Rich, commander,* today announced that the Hunderbark orchestra, as well as probably other musicians, will take part in the program.

YOUTH SCOOPS UP BILLS FROM CASH REGISTER

Unmasked Robber Spurns Change and Escapes In Waiting Car

ATTENDANT IS COVERED BY GUN

He and Visitor Forced To Lie On Floor of Station

Forcing two men to lie on the floor while he looted the cash register of an undetermined amount of money, a lone bandit Friday night held up and robbed the Sohio gasoline station, West State st.

Orders Gasoline First
The bandit, youthful and unmasked, drove to the gasoline station at 9:15 p. m. and ordered five gallons of gasoline from C. R. Garrigue, station attendant. He stood beside Garrigue while the latter filled the "gas" tank, then suddenly drew a revolver and, holding it by his side, ordered the attendant into the station.

"Come in here! I want your money," he told Garrigue, according to the latter's story to police.

Joseph Woerther, West State st., visiting Garrigue at the station, was in the office when the two entered, and he, as well as the attendant, was ordered by the bandit to lie on the floor.

Covering the two men with the revolver, the bandit backed to the cash register, opened it and scooped up bills from the drawer. He did not take any change, Garrigue reported.

Escapes In Auto
Ordering Garrigue and Woerther to remain on the floor, the bandit ran out of the office, jumped into his machine and drove west on West State st. Garrigue immediately notified police. Patrolman Neer Gaunt and Merchant's Police-man James Hassey investigating.

A good description of the bandit was provided by Garrigue. Police Chief Stoffor said today. The description was sent out immediately to police authorities of surrounding cities.

No report was made to police of the amount of money taken by the bandit.

SPEED ON PEACE PLANS IS URGED

Immediate Action Essential, Asserts British Prime Minister

(By Associated Press)
OSTIA, Italy, March 18.—Peace must be organized quickly if it is organized at all, said Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain here today while enroute to Rome for conferences with Premier Mussolini.

He made the statement shortly after he alighted from a plane piloted by General Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, which had brought him and his party from Genoa. They went to the latter place by train from Geneva where the British premier and his foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, went last week to break a deadlock in the world disarmament conference.

Mr. MacDonald was welcomed here by the Italian premier.

Irwin Will Divide Money From R. F. C.

LISBON, March 18.—County Auditor John H. Irwin is in receipt of a warrant for $26,566.71 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which amount will be distributed among seven townships and three cities next week. This relief money is for allowances for the month of February.

Distribution will be made as follows: East Liverpool, $13,318.51; Wellsville, $6,832.56; East Palestine, $1,094.84; Liverpool township, $45.56; St. Clair township, $199.07; Salem township, $1,480.56; Washington township, $947.08; Knox township, $826.13; West township, $771.39; administration costs, $125.

Requirements of the various townships and cities for the current month have been anticipated, but a warrant for this money is not expected to be received here until April.

FATHER, THREE CHILDREN SLAIN

Bodies of Four Found At Grave of Man's Wife Near Philadelphia

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Gilbert Friend, 28-year-old railway mail clerk of Plant City, Fla., and his three young children were found shot to death today at the grave of his wife in suburban Upper Darby.

The bodies of the children lay close together on the mother's grave, a blanket covering all but their heads. Each had been shot through the heart, police said.

Friend, a bullet wound in his head, lay beside them with a pistol nearby. The children were Robert A., Helen 6, and Kenneth, 7 months.

The tragedy apparently occurred about midnight, police said. Police said they learned Friend's wife, Marianne, had died on Jan. 5, at the age of 26. The children were brought here a week ago.

The names of all three children and Friend were found inscribed on the headstone of the wife's grave, authorities said.

Suicide, Murder Is Theory
Police expressed the opinion Friend, grief-stricken over his wife's death, had slain the children and then committed suicide.

The note found in his car read: "I must go join her whom we love so greatly. I do as I believe right about our children, considering the fact that I must go. May God forgive me if I be wrong."

In another note found in the car, Friend wrote the "correct facts" leading up to his act. This note read:

Doug Says It With Flowers But Joan Fails to Respond

Actress Announces Separation After Her Husband Is Named Defendant In Love Theft Suit

(By Associated Press)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 18.—The efforts of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., to "kiss it with flowers" brought no encouraging response today from his estranged wife, Joan Crawford.

The actress announced last night slightly more than 24 hours after Fairbanks had been made defendant in a love theft suit, that she had separated from her actor husband, Miss Crawford, however, denied young Fairbanks' legal troubles had entered into the separation and said divorce proceedings were not contemplated.

Fairbanks, joining his wife in declaring there was "no other woman," said he was setting out immediately to woo Miss Crawford the same as he did before she became his bride in 1929. He said he already had sent her flowers.

The alienation of affections suit was filed against Fairbanks by Jorgen Dietz, chemical engineer, who alleged the actor stole the love of his wife Solveig Dietz, Danish actress. A total of $60,000 damages is sought by Dietz for the alleged love theft, and for alleged false imprisonment.

DR. HANS LUTHER COMES TO U. S.

Former Reichsbank President Named Ambassador from Germany

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, March 18.—Dr. Hans Luther, who resigned the presidency of the Reichsbank last Tuesday, was appointed German ambassador to the United States today to succeed Friedrich Wilhelm von Prittwitz.

Dr. Luther was chancellor of Germany for brief terms in 1925 and 1923. In 1923 he was minister of finance.

He became president of the Reichsbank in April, 1930, and his predecessor, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, became president again this week when Dr. Luther resigned.

Born in Berlin, Dr. Luther is 54 years old.

Dr. Luther's wide acquaintance with American financiers, businessmen and leaders in intellectual and social life, and also his linguistic ability, made the government focus its attention upon him as the most desirable successor for Herr von Prittwitz.

Even the Nazis, although disapproving his "international capitalist" course, approved Dr. Luther, in view of the fact that he voluntarily resigned his post as president of the Reichsbank a year before expiration of his term although he could not have been removed until that time.

CONGRESS WILL STAY ON JOB UNTIL MAY 1

Roosevelt Confident He Can Draft Remainder of His "New Deal" Program Rapidly Enough to Keep Legislators Busy

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Congress is going to keep at work on President Roosevelt's new deal until about May 1.

That is the agreement between congressional leaders and the new president, who has decided he can draft the remainder of his suggestions rapidly enough for the national legislature to have something to work on.

Originally, Mr. Roosevelt thought a short recess might be necessary after the emergency program was enacted. But the continuous session now is agreed upon.

Program Outlined
By early next week, the President will make laws of two more of his emergency ideas—beer-revenue and economy. Next he expects his farm bill and a temporary employment relief measure. Then are to follow railroad, banking, further employment and other legislation as conditions merit.

With the economy and beer-enacted reorganization, the new administration will have finished its first step, which was an attempt at budget balancing.

It is not contemplated just now that new taxes will be needed. The hope is that the $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 revenue from beer and increased receipts from existing higher taxes added to the $600,000,000 reduction in expenses through the economy bill and reorganizations will enable the government to pay as it goes.

Employment Plans Coming
Some of the other legislation to be suggested already is taking form. Early next week when congress reconvenes after its week-end recess, the President will submit his initial employment program, which will propose authorization of a reforestation program to give work to 250,000. When that is enacted there will follow the housing-employment scheme proposing public works and provision for relief needs until conditions get back to normal.

A start is being made, too, on banking legislation. This will have a primary object the separation of

Sunday Schools of 4 Townships To Meet In April

The spring convention of the Four Township Sunday School association, comprised of 23 schools in this district, will be held the latter part of April, officers announce.

The date will be fixed by the program committee and the place will be selected by the place committee.

New committees have been appointed by the association. Here they are: Program—L. H. Glass, North Benton, chairman; Rev. W. R. Williams, Damascus; Prof. E. G. Boester, Belmont.

Place—J. N. Baker, Reading, chairman; E. A. Irvin, Homeworth; Lorin Malmberg, Goshen. Nominating—H. O. Stanley, Damascus, chairman; Prof. L. H. Pollock, Sebring, and Frank Stanley, East Beach.

The average attendance per Sunday for the association is nearly 3,000.

Here is the attendance record for last Sunday: Bandy Friends, 53; Beech Reformed, 113; Belmont Friends, 196; Bunker Hill M. E., 70; Damascus Friends, 184; Damascus M. E., 117; Goshen Friends, 123; Homeworth Evangelical, 46; Homeworth Presbyterian, 116; North Benton Presbyterian, 89; North Georgetown Brethren, 42.

MORE SPEED

In another refreshingly brief message President Roosevelt has asked congress for speedy action on farm relief. In a few weeks farmers will be out on the land raising new crops. Their produce soon will be on the market. If aid is to be given, it must be given immediately.

Once more the President has asked for authorization to proceed on a general plan whose details will be filled in by a secretary of agriculture whose sympathies for farmers are well known. Mr. Roosevelt does not say how he will do it, but he has dedicated his administration to correction of low prices for agricultural products and the chief cause of low prices—overproduction.

Wise, he submits his general plan to the people with the frank admission that he doesn't know whether or not it will work. He says, "It is a new and untrod path... If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you." That is fair enough. The country will be found willing to accept farm relief on that basis.

It may not believe—millions of its citizens are positive—that farm relief cannot be imposed from above with any greater success than buying power can be restored by the distribution of charity. On the other hand, it is an established fact that until the agricultural population's buying power is restored through decent prices for farm commodities there can be no general improvement. The stability of the economic cycle has been destroyed. It must be restored. There may be a way to do it artificially.

The Democratic party is pledged to active measures to promote restoration. President Roosevelt received the vote of agricultural states because they had confidence in his ability to help agriculture. He is keeping his promise with a continuance of the aggressive leadership which has been characteristic of his previous actions. Farm relief is the fourth point in his legislative program, which has included bank reform, an economy bill and a beer bill. He has kept the faith.

The people are skeptical of government's ability to provide genuine farm relief. Having tried so many schemes, however, it cannot well refuse to sanction one more. President Roosevelt enlists cooperation by admitting himself that he isn't sure it will work. The country now awaits further details of what is to be attempted.

IT WOULD HELP

Senator Borah's attack on the well known congressional mileage grab brings to momentary attention again the list of evidence proving the corrupt extravagance of the people's representatives. Despite failure to make a housecleaning, there still is hope that congressmen may some day be convinced that they could make no more sincere gesture of willingness to fulfill their trust than correction in such matters.

They are little things, but they are intensely irritating. They indicate to taxpayers a general disposition to victimize public funds. They destroy faith in good intentions. They smell strongly of holdly taken graft. Continuance of them in the knowledge that the people know of and resent such practices indicates a careless disregard of public opinion. They are among the most annoying sins of the men who are elected to represent the people.

It would be a simple matter to get rid of them. In the aggregate the graft of mileage rates which bring extra thousands of dollars to the pockets of congressmen amounts only to $150,000 a year. Similarly, the luxury expenditures recently disclosed as common practices of the senate do not represent a large expenditure so much as they represent a serious annoyance. The clerical graft exposed in the last congress falls into the same category.

Judging from the remarks of senators and representatives, they are sensitive to criticism. They give the appearance of wanting to raise public esteem for their legislative bodies. Not infrequently they have gone so far as to say that they have been the victims of malicious criticism. But while they talk they display no awareness of the comparative ease with which they could gain respect by so simple a matter as cleaning their own house. They give sanction to too many petty annoyances to give an appearance of good faith.

Senator Borah has pointed out that 5 cents a mile for travel expenses is adequate. The present rate is 15 cents. Unless something is done it will go back to the former rate of 20 cents at the beginning of the next fiscal year. Here is a test of congressional sincerity, an opportunity to show the country that congressmen are willing to give up a swindle of long standing. If they truly want to enhance their prestige, it would help.

What Others Say

A LESSON IN CALMNESS

By Byron Price
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.)

If anyone has been inclined to feel nervous and jittery over the stability of the American nation, he must have had a great lesson, indeed, during the bank crisis.

The solidarity of officials and financial leaders in that disastrous time has become history, but not so much has been written about the really more significant patience and confidence of the rank and file of plain American citizens.

Even an optimist probably would have replied with dire warnings if he had been asked beforehand:

"What would happen if the banking machinery of the nation were paralyzed for a full week, businesses cut off from their operating funds the poor denied access to their savings and the liquid assets of 120,000,000 people tied up in a virtual receivership?"

What did happen? There were no sides whatever in that dark day of riotous revolution which has occupied so actively the speculative minds of the pessimists. Instead there were actual cheerfulness and relief that at last the big smash had come, and the country was about to get it over with.

It is interesting to note the close parallel between the two strokes of Presidential leadership, which generally are accounted the most spectacular since the depression began—the Hoover moratorium and the Roosevelt bank holiday.

In each instance the action taken was of a nature which, examined coldly, might be expected to arouse widespread antagonism. Mr. Hoover's moratorium on war debts, viewed in that light, imposed the arm of government between a tax-wary people and debts justly due them. Mr. Roosevelt's bank proclamation put up the iron bars of governmental control between the people and their own money, on deposit in banks.

Yet there are the two Presidential acts which above all others during the depression evoked almost universal accord and support, regardless of party or section. No better proof could be offered that the nation demands leadership and action, even when it hurts, and is willing to follow a bold course in the confident belief that its government is its one great rock of reliance in a time of trouble.

Mr. Roosevelt's determination to go on with his program, leading a breathless congress from banking to budget-balancing to beer finds certain organized groups rallying in opposition.

But it is an orderly opposition, indulging in no talk about "the revolution."

The significant thing is that while disagreements as to national policies will be, as always, inevitable, the situation is in hand and "the government at Washington still lives."

Britain, Too, Has Its Fascists

It looks as if the Fascist movement is gaining ground in Great Britain, where, hitherto, it had been regarded as something in the nature of a lark. Here is a group of uniformed "Blackshirts," pictured after a visit to the Japanese Embassy in London to offer Japan sympathy following the vote of censure by the League of Nations. At right is Miss R. L. Lintorn-Orman, founder of the women's Fascist group, and at left, W. J. Webster, chief of the men's unit.

That Salem is to be the distributing point for Cuban grown grapefruit was the announcement made by C. W. Shawke of Lisbon, Wednesday, after arranging with local grocers to handle the fruit. A carload from a farm near Omaha, Cuba, is expected to arrive here in the next few weeks.

A war of extermination on all popular trees along the streets of the city was declared by Service Director Rummel before city council Tuesday evening. For some years these popular trees have been a source of sewer trouble all over the city.

Miss Ethel Howell, daughter of Daniel Howell, and Charles Raymond Gilbert were married Tuesday evening by Rev. W. L. Swan at his home, McKinley ave. After their return from a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and Detroit they will make their home with the groom's parents temporarily until their new home on Franklin ave. is completed.

Miss Mabel Coy and Ray Stanley, who secured a marriage license at Lisbon will be married Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Coy, Damascus, by Rev. G. R. Kent.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Elizabeth Alice Cook, this city, and Lewis Kirk, near Middletown, which will be an event of April 30.

Mrs. F. W. Webster entertained a few friends at luncheon Wednesday at her home on East Fifth st.

Barbers Will Not Dress Women's Hair

MADISON, Wis.—There will be no "finger waves" given here—in W. Wisconsin barber shops.

Beauty parlor operators protested emphatically when the State Barber's organization asked a legislative measure permitting barber shops to dress women's hair.

The beauticians said they wanted the barbers to keep out of their specialties. The men surrendered.

South Charleston Balances Budget

SOUTH CHARLESTON, March 18.—The village commission of South Charleston has balanced the budget for 1933 in the smallest village in the United States operating under the city manager form of government.

Estimated income and expense balance exactly and officials say that they expect the village to live within its means.

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, March 18.—So little is heard of those who have beaten depression's rap. For instance, Sam and Belle Sperack, who wandered to Hollywood at the first swoop of the big dip, took very moderate living quarters, wrote and sold scenarios, and never saw the inside of the Brown Derby.

In two years and a half, they sold $30,000 in short term government notes—not taking chances on a bank blowup. Then they came to New York, wrote a play, and sold the screen rights for $40,000. The play, also, had a fair run. So now they join the promenade on Easy Street.

Ollie Armitz, which sounds like the cry of the top-mountain of an acrobatic troupe, lost his $60-a-week job as a department store ad writer. His wife lost her job, warbling in a song shop. They began to write radio skits and gags. In 11 months they made $3,000.

Almost everyone knows several who have similarly prospered during the depression. At breakfast the other day, a sage, of 60, observed: "The next crop of millionaires will be those who, instead of grouching, are thinking up ideas for which the world is going to be mightily in need."

On the street recently, I was handed a packet of matches on the outside flap of which was printed: "Have you a job for Ralph Neave, Jr.?" Inside, was a recording of his age, education, and list of jobs he had successfully held. A lot of people are going to think of Mr. Neave when they hear of a job suiting him.

I drove down to Bayside to call a minute on Mrs. James J. Corbett the evening her famous husband was slipping off into the shadows. The home, on the wooded edge of the bay, was shrouded in brooding darkness, except for a light that burned in the ex-champion's bedroom upstairs. The chirp of an occasional cricket relieved a stillness that was eerie. One could not help but think of the roar of the crowd he so often faced, and his contrasting peace, in facing the last enemy.

Instead of the excitement of seconds in white sweaters, was the calm of a poised nurse in white. Mrs. Corbett, torn by days of anxious bedside watching, sat heroically dry-eyed. "I shall miss him so," she said. So will the world.

Things one remembers about stage folk: Mary Boland's dumbell bewilderment... Beatrice Lillie's arched entrance expression... Eddie Cantor's quick hand-pats... Judith Anderson's earnest listening... Frank Craven's naturalness... Ed Wynn's goofy blink... James Barton's lifeless encore bows... Henry Stephens's lap... Victor Moore's gawkiness... Helen Menken's hands... William Gaxton's poise... Alice Brady's twinkle... George M. Cohan's walk... Fannie Brice's "boidie"... Zita Johann's far-away look... Ina Claire's glacial manner... Katherine Cornell's curtsies... Spring Byington's twitter... David Warfield's sobby choke... Lenore Ulric's husk.

Incidentally, a magnificent trouper returned to the Rialto recently for what grandma called a whiplash. I refer to Florence Reed. In that jolly medievalism before handwork went out and machinery came in to ruin everything, she was my favorite actress. I had not seen her in 15 years. Such gaps, usually prove disappointing. But not with Miss Reed.

quality of his magnetism. Several months ago, I was in the Empire building around noon. It seemed to have the gloomy aura of a crypt—a sort of cenotaph to civilization's despair. Yesterday, I was there at the same time. Smith, his cigar akimbo and derby at jaunty angle, was chatting with a group of familiars in the foyer. The whole structure seemed suddenly recharged with vitality. Everything was the same as months before—except Al was there!

The only other person I know who can vitalize a dead gathering so quickly is Michael Arlen. The minute he steps into a room, everybody wants to begin ringing door-bells. Or play leapfrog.

It may be imagination born of acute sensitivity, but when I enter the room in the same manner, I have the feeling of a collective murmur: "You here! Another evening goes sour." Just a sweetheart of a party-queerer!

Interesting Items For Students, Teachers and Parents

By RALPH LONG, JR.

The Freshman class entertained the student body in an assembly held yesterday morning with a musical program featuring the event.

Charles Freed initiated the program with a piano solo entitled "Medley of Irish Airs." A vocal duet followed, "My Wild Irish Rose," by Elizabeth Hinkley and Nedra Williamson with Lois Dilworth at the piano. Ruth Cornwall then entertained with a cornet solo, "Jupiter." Next came a piano solo, "Back in the Old Sunday School," by Margaret Zilvary. "In My Hide Away," a clarinet solo, by Mary Jane Shoe followed.

Robert Donahay, with clever brogue plus whiskers and a cane, gave a reading entitled, "The Good Old Days." A piano solo, "The Storm," by Lois Dilworth came next. Jane Courtney played "Paradise" on the saxophone, while Lois Dilworth played the accompaniment. Eleanor and Helen Stengel presented "Drowsy Waters," a guitar duet. "Johnny, Get Ready for Company," a very humorous reading, was given by Mary Elizabeth Sharkey.

Arnold Nye and Joe Poles concluded the program, with a vocal and violin duet. They played and sang "Comin' Round the Mountain." As an encore Nye sang "They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree." Mary Jane Shoe was at the piano.

Jimmy Campbell, class president, handled the program with the likeness of a professional announcer.

Between five and six hundred students attended the association party held in the High school gymnasium last night.

"Submerged," a one act play, was presented preceding the dancing which commenced at 8 and ended at 11:30 p. m.

W. F. Bolins orchestra furnished the music.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

Mary's flight home was a rout, a panic of her emotions. She could have any danger—could endure any suffering—but there was a new kind of pain stabbing her with a thousand daggers....

Was Steve's love beginning to fade?

She hurried on through the dark, lonely streets; dark shadows, suddenly, appeared under her eyes, but the fast beating of her heart brought a strange brightness to the eyes themselves. Even now some fundamental instinct of pride asserted itself, and her gold head was erect, her step defiant. That no chance passerby might suspect the wolves that were tearing at her heart....

She couldn't believe that Steve had deliberately put this blow upon her. But why had he allowed Bill Calvert to come upon such an errand? She had always thought Steve was so strong—had he turned weakling? Was his love so fragile that it bent to every passing fancy? Had Eileen's tears so moved him that he was beginning to regret his little love excursion in New York? Had the Calvert family appealed to his chivalry, his sense of honor? Ah, but it was hard to believe anything against Steve! Her love deepened him; he hated to hurt people; merely, he had wanted to make the break with Eileen as painless as possible. He was sentimental, loyal, chivalrous. Being a mere man, how could he have foreseen that Bill Calvert's proposition would have hurt her? How could he understand that suggested comparison of her with Eileen would burn her every woman's instinct with shame and resentment?

Steve was dumb!

Yes, he was dumb about women—but he was dear, he was lovable.... he was the vital essence of her whole life. She wanted to be alone now, to hide herself like a wounded little animal. Oh, she wanted time to think, privacy to tend her hurt. Now, tonight, if she went up to the flat, the family would be all over her, she was afraid the sound of their voices might send her into hysteria. The strain of the last two weeks had been tremendous, her nerves were frayed. She wanted to be alone.... alone....

But where, in the great city, is there privacy for the poor? She sat down on the stoop of the apartment house and leaned sideways against the iron railing. It was as good a place as any. The memory of Steve's humorous smile, the magic of his embrace and kisses, his joking way of speech, flooded over her and tears ran down her hot cheeks. Bravely she dabbed them away with her handkerchief and dried her eyes. Maybe she would have a whole lifetime in which to weep....

Bill Calvert, in surprise, had watched Mary flee from him, but before she had gone a block he followed her, his face serious and perplexed. And now he caught up with her as she sat huddled and disconsolate on the stoop. He stood there some time before she was aware of his presence.

"Well, I'm afraid I've made you hate me," he said awkwardly.

"Don't hate me, I suppose it's right for you to stand up for your sister and try to get Steve back for her...."

"If it's wrong for her to have Steve, then I'm against her having him," he returned pacifically. "And really you're wrong about something else; I didn't want to get you up there to show you in a poor light beside Eileen. As a matter of fact, you could stand up beside any girl without suffering. But if I tried to put over on you a scheme that you thought I did, why, I ought to be taken out and shot! Of course, I can see that it looked like a low-down deal to you—but it wasn't meant that way. I want you to believe me, Miss Kennedy."

"It doesn't matter," she said. "I'm not in a mood for understanding anything at all tonight."

"You don't realize what a delicate position I am in," Bill Calvert went on earnestly. "Everything I said to you tonight was well meant. Of course, I'll admit now that I didn't see things—in the light you put them. Perhaps you are right that you might appear to some disadvantage in Eileen's home. But it was all my own idea—not Eileen's. I simply thought it was a sporting sort of notion, but I didn't think far enough ahead to get your angle."

"Oh, I don't think you actually meant to be unfair," she told him miserably. "But it would have given your sister a beautiful chance to show me up."

"Not at all," he protested. "You see, you didn't let me finish everything I started to say. I think you wouldn't be at any particular disadvantage at all because—because I don't think Steve would notice such matters very much. The truth is—Steve keeps asking for you all the time. He—"Bill stopped, a frown furrowed his brow.

"Is there anything—the matter?" she asked with swift poignance.

"There is nothing seriously the matter," he assured, carefully. "I didn't want to alarm you, but Steve has had an accident. We were out riding and he was thrown from a horse. His neck might have been broken, but it wasn't. He will have to stay in bed for a while and keep very quiet—but he's going to pull through."

"You're not telling me the truth—he may be dying!" she sprang to her feet, clutching at Bill's arm.

"Don't lie to me!"

"Don't get excited," he put his hand on her shoulder and forced her to sit down again on the stoop. "It was a close call but he is getting along fine. If I had not been sure of that—how could I have talked to you about his engagement, and so forth? Perhaps I was a fool, at that, to get into such deep water. But whether or no, I must take you back home with me. Steve wants you, and I promised to bring you."

"Yes, yes! I must go to him!" She stared at Bill Calvert with wild eyes, but she was not seeing him at all. The picture in her mind showed only Steve bandaged and pale on a bed. That was why he had not written! Ah, he wanted her! In his hours of helplessness he still loved! What help, what comfort, could Eileen bring to him at a time like this?

"I left my car in a garage and I'll bring it right around," Bill said. "Can you start right away?"

"As soon as I can pack—in fifteen minutes," she told him vibrantly. "I'll meet you right here."

She flew up the stairs. Trembling with haste, she packed two bags. Her sister, her father, were dumbfounded at her bewildering activity.

"I'm going away to spend some time with some friends," she told them with rapid indifference. "Don't worry about me—I'll be all right. I'm not going for pleasure, I'm not going for business, I'm not going for anything. I'm just going to help. Don't ask questions!" She stopped her ears against their importunities. They dared not even follow her down stairs.

In Bill Calvert's long gray roadster, she left the lights of the city speedily behind, and the machine settled down for its swift flight through the night....

DISAGREE ON BEER
PRIME MINISTER FLIES
TROTSKY WATCHES

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE SENATE and House disagree on the alcoholic content of beer and wine. The House says 3.2 per cent, the Senate 3.05 per cent. The difference is small.

A bottle of 3.2 per cent beer would contain less than half an ounce of alcohol.

Doctors say a child or an old man can safely, and in many cases profitably, absorb two ounces of alcohol a day, properly diluted.

AS FOR 3.2 OR 3.05 per cent wine, there is "no such animal."

Mr. Ortega, learned French restaurant keeper, whose $25,000 prize enabled Colonel Lindbergh to make his flight to France, says that mild wines are 8 per cent alcohol, better wines 11 or 12 per cent, Chateau Yquem 14 per cent.

Wine French families drink natural wines diluted to less than 2 per cent alcohol.

French schoolboys drink a mixture called abondance, water with a slight red wine coloring, about one-quarter of 1 per cent.

IN ANCIENT days, when men from the north came over the Alps into Italy, sometimes conquering, sometimes not, they climbed slowly through steep passes thousands of feet in the air.

Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of England, on his way to discuss various matters with Mussolini travels in a fashion that would surprise the old Germanic invader, when he is related.

He will fly through the air, in a twin-motor seaplane, sitting next to General Balbo, the great Italian flyer who guided a whole fleet of airships in perfect formation across the Atlantic ocean. MacDonald will get out at Ostia, and drive to Rome, to be received by Mussolini.

Where Mussolini sits appears to be the head of the European table just now.

TROTSKY, who once boasted Russia's army, and helped Lenin to throw out the czars, watches the world from Constantinople, alias Istanbul.

Trotsky has been here, knows this "capitalistic country," as Russians call it, and if he were a betting man he would bet on the United States.

He puts it thus: "World capital will develop under the increasing hegemony of the United States, especially under the hegemony of the dollar over the British sterling."

Wise Trotsky. Hegemony means "leadership," and you will always find it located where great wealth is combined with engineering, science and men willing to fight. We have those three things, be it said in all humility.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT doesn't call himself a prophet or a prophet's son and will offer his farm relief bill, with a promise to admit the fact instantly if it should prove a mistake. He wisely calls farm relief "a new and untrodden path."

It is hard to regulate production of men scattered all over the earth, competing without organization or agreement.

WHILE BRITAIN'S House of Commons was discussing greater expenditures for fighting ships, a young woman scattered from the gallery reserved for members of the House of Lords, pamphlets, saying that war expenses were increased while appropriations for education, unemployment relief and housing were cut down. The pamphlet's last words were: "End this nonsense."

There is another side to the question. A country not adequately defended may lose its liberty, which is more important even than public housing and unemployment. When there are no wolves visible the sheep probably believe that shepherds and sheep dogs are a waste of money. They change their minds when the wolf appears.

RUSSIA locked up six English business men in Moscow, accusing them of sabotage, conspiracy against Russia's welfare, and Britain "expects a complete break with Russia."

However, Russia buys much machinery from Britain and gets credit from Britain, which puts trade first and "petty annoyances" second. Britain will not allow any break with a good customer to last long.

The student, S. C. Wu, wrote Eschebarger that he is compiling a history of the world's leading cities and that he understands that Dayton has a form of government far different from that of others.

Geologists Expected California 'Quake

Collapse of Ocean Floor Off Coast Caused Slipping of Earth's Crust That Rocked Southern Part of State—Existence of Fault Long Known.

That "for twenty years geologists and seismologists have known the Los Angeles district must eventually have serious earthquakes," is the surprising declaration of Dr. A. T. Jagger, volcanologist of the Hawaiian National Park. The existence of an active fault, or collapse, in the ocean floor, about 137 miles southwest of Los Angeles, is believed to have been the direct cause of the earth tremors that cost at least 120 lives, thousands of injuries and millions of dollars in property damage. A large fault map of California shows this fault running northwest to southeast near Long Beach, the center of the seismic disturbance, and extending southward to a point south of San Clemente Island. The recent series of shocks that rocked the coast regarded as a favorable symptom that the quake was broken up into a succession of small shocks, for it is an indication that readjustments of the strata that form the earth's crust are proceeding normally toward a new basis of stability. The San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906, which resulted in the loss of 452 lives and $350,000,000 worth of property damage, was due to slipping caused by a similar readjustment of strata on the northern end of the San Andreas fault line. Diagram above, drawn according to geologists' data, shows the collapse in the ocean floor and the distance from Los Angeles. A closeup of the fault is shown in circle. The map at right shows the area affected by the quake.

NEWS FROM NEARBY DISTRICTS

WINONA

Honoring her husband's birthday anniversary, Mrs. Enory Holloway entertained a group of friends and relatives at her home on Friday evening of last week. The affair was a party and costumes in keeping with hard-times were worn by guests, who were present from Salem, Damascus and Winona. Games, stunts and jig-saw puzzles furnished entertainment. The hostess, assisted by Miss Jessie Woolman, served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Steer and Mrs. Hanna Fowler Steer, arrived home Monday evening from California, where they spent the winter.

The Mizpah class of the Methodist church held their March social in the church parlors Tuesday evening.

Supper was served at 7:30 by Miss Mary Ward and Mrs. Ruth Murray, hostesses. Table appointments and other decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's day. Seventeen members of the class were present.

A business session was called by Lowell Whinery, president of the class. Plans for a play were discussed and Mrs. Roy Ober, Esther Hoopes and Russell Whinery were appointed to select one and choose the cast. Raymond Brant, Josephine Dunn and Mrs. Lowell Mountz were selected for a publicity committee. Members for a debating team were also chosen.

The social period was directed by Esther Hoopes and Josephine Dunn and consisted of a community sale and other games. The next social will be the second Tuesday evening in April with Mrs. Raymond Brant and Mrs. Lowell Whinery acting as hostesses.

The sewing machine clinic was held Wednesday in the M. E. church basement, under the direction of Floyd Lower, county agent. The meeting was well attended. R. D. Barden, farm machinery specialist, of Ohio State university was the instructor in charge. 13 sewing machines were there for overhauling and adjusting. The morning meeting was devoted to the cleaning and oiling of these machines.

A covered dinner was served at noon. At 1:00 p. m. Mr. Barden conducted a discussion group in which questions were answered and he explained the principles of operation of the machines. The owners of the machines then returned to their machines to make necessary adjustments.

They were finally checked by Mr. Barden. Everyone present declared the meeting a decided success.

The Methodist church parlors were the scenes of a gay "Irish Party" Wednesday evening when the members of the Ladies Aid entertained their husbands and friends at a "Calendar Party." Decorations in keeping with St. Patrick's day were used to create a festive air.

Irish games and contests entertained.

The "Calendars" which held 16 dimes were filled by members during the past year. Following the reading of a poem composed by Mrs. S. H. Bennett, the calendars were opened and found to contain $49. Not all are turned in as yet.

Refreshments were served to the company which numbered approximately 60 people.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Hall and daughter, Gertrude of Cleveland, spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Satterthwaite. Mrs. Anna Hall accompanied them and will spend some time at the Satterthwaite home.

Mrs. A. B. Cole and children, Audrey, Dolores and James of Altoona, Pa., arrived Thursday evening to spend a few days with her mother, Mrs. S. D. Gettig.

Mrs. Andrew Zeppeneck, Salem, is spending a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Hannah Fowler Steer.

Escape Quake Injury

Rev. Martin Brantingham received word from his two brothers, John and Adna, who live in Scenery Hill, California, near Long Beach, that they and their families escaped unhurt in the recent earthquake.

Mrs. Homer Stackhouse, Mr. and Mrs. George Earl Walton and son, Robert Lee, and Mrs. Elmer Althouse of Salem were guests Friday of Mrs. Elwood Forney of Columbiana. The ladies spent the time quilting.

Members of the Homemaker's club and others numbering 17 held a sewing Friday at the home of Mrs. George Megrall. Three corsets were made, some new garments and a number of second hand garments were repaired. These garments and covers will be sent direct to Mrs. Arthur Gamble, who is engaged in relief work in Kentucky. Mrs. Andrew Zeppeneck of Salem was in the company.

Alfred Patton of California was a caller in Winona Friday. He and Mrs. Patton arrived in Salem Thursday, having motored across the continent and are with their daughter, Mrs. Holland Cameron.

Miss Martha Rupert entertained members of the Pearl-Seekers class of the Methodist church taught by Josephine Dunn, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Coppock, Friday evening. Music and games entertained.

HOME MAKING HELPS

A Plan of Procedure Tests To Lighten Housecleaning

The woman who tells her friends that she is always cleaning house, has a home that, in point of view of cleanliness, usually leaves much to be desired. It is the woman with plenty of time for social duties, who often has the nicest, freshest home. I am not talking now of women with servants, but of the average housewife who has to run her little home herself with but little outside assistance.

Thinking and planning are essential if the home is to be always clean with a minimum of time and effort. Beauty and calm peace dwell in the home that is perfectly kept, no matter how simple it may be or unpretentious its furnishings. The careful housewife invariably uses the slogan, "A cleaner house by twelve o'clock" and lives up to it. And this means an efficient use of efficient equipment and the systematic use of time. No one can give a plan for cleaning house. Every home and conditions vary and they must be worked out by the housewife herself. All that any writer on domestic science can do is to offer a few pertinent suggestions that may be of help, no matter what house or what the conditions therein may be.

List Daily Tasks

First, list the daily cleaning duties, and rearrange it, until you have it perfect for your needs. Daily tasks include the airing of rooms, the washing of dishes, the wiping up of kitchen and bathroom, the making of beds, and dusting and sweeping of bedrooms, dusting of the living room and the sweeping of porches, steps, sidewalks. For a week or so, carry on these daily tasks with an eye on the clock. Mark down the exact time required for each task. As you do this, study each task. Can you shorten the time it takes and yet do it thoroughly? If your equipment is not adequate, or inefficiently used, the time will be longer spent on each job.

You will find that perhaps a change in the order of tasks will save steps and time. Perhaps more soap or another brush or a colander of new sturdy dusts will help things along. Perhaps having soaps, brushes, etc., at various strategic points in the house will save time. After studying your time-table, put down on paper the reasonable minimum time required for each task.

Next, we must study the weekly cleaning tasks and the semi-weekly jobs. Make a study of these, and finally record, as on a daily list, a reasonable time for each duty. Then come the twice-a-month or once-a-month tasks. Study these and arrange them as you would the daily and weekly jobs. Then start to put your plan together. And after your home-running plan has been built, you will know just how many hours you have for leisure and for social duties. We'll deal with this in our next article, tomorrow.

Sentimental Hoarder Gives Up His Gold

CHICAGO—A portly gentleman who appeared at the Federal Reserve bank told a teller he wished to keep his gold for sentimental reasons.

"How much have you?" he was asked.

"About $8,000," said the sentimental.

"I appreciate your sentiment, but you'll have to sacrifice it for the time being," he was informed.

WHITE SATIN

This Classic Material Still Reigns Supreme in the Evening Mode

By MARIE MAROT

LAST YEAR, and again this season, satin especially has maintained its supremacy. There is such classic beauty in the white satin frock that it needs little embellishment to make it superb. It should be the choice, however, only of the slender woman.

One of the nicest of the new frocks, shown in the accompanying sketch, is a formal evening gown done in lustrous white satin, with molded bodice and girder treatment that are new and refreshing. The frock is worn with a very beautiful cape made of white ring velvet finished in very fine pleats. It ties with a huge butterfly bow and can be worn at the front, side or back.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

Desserts of Whole Wheat

Many requests reach me for recipes that include whole wheat flour. Many mothers wish to give their children the benefit of this flour not only in bread but in desserts as well. A very excellent idea.

When whole wheat apple pie was first introduced on the menu of a smart restaurant, it was at the request of one important guest. Before the week was out, this pie was the favored dessert of the majority of patrons. A good whole wheat flour is an all-purpose flour. It is so rich and good in itself that you can cut down on the shortening.

By adding less shortening and a little more liquid, you can use it in all your baking. Muffins, biscuits, cakes and pies will take on a delicious nutlike flavor and will emerge a tempting golden-brown color. But we've talked long enough about the virtues of whole wheat flour. Let's get to work on some recipes.

Whole Wheat Muffins

Your family will adore these muffins. I'm sure.

Mix together three cups of whole wheat flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, five teaspoons of baking powder and two tablespoons of sugar. Then add two eggs, well beaten, two tablespoons melted shortening and two and one-half cups of milk. Mix well and put by spoonfuls into well greased muffin pans. Bake in a hot oven (425 F.) for twenty minutes. You'll find these muffins to be rich, flavorful and crisp on the outside and nice and soft inside, which is what a muffin should be like. And besides the milk and eggs that go into their making, you get the benefit of all the vitamins and minerals that make real whole wheat such a valuable health asset.

Here is another healthful zestful whole wheat recipe, this time for whole wheat popovers. Add to one cup of whole wheat flour a half teaspoon of salt and stir in one and one-half cups of milk. Add two beaten eggs and beat vigorously for three minutes. Fill well greased muffin pans two-thirds full of batter and bake for ten minutes in a hot oven (450 F.) then lower the oven temperature to 350 degrees and continue to bake for thirty minutes more.

Prunes As You Will Like 'em

Prunes are ever so good for us, but contrary to what we are told, we don't usually like the foods containing precious salts, minerals and vitamins. And so, if the children are inclined to balk when stewed prunes are served, this time for whole wheat popovers, so much so that they will be welcomed at any and all meals.

Therefore this department has made a study of prune lore which it hastens to impart to its readers.

The Way Men Like Them

Men usually detest prunes, but one hostess has discovered how to serve prunes, so that the men of her family and guests ask for second helpings. She serves cooked prunes stuffed with chutney.

Strange, perhaps, but then, so many people like the combination of savory and sweet. Soak and steam the prunes. Cool. Slice the fruit open and extract the stone. Fill with chutney or with chopped pickle and serve with cold cuts or as a separate course. Pickled walnuts may be used.

The whole family is sure to like prune fritters. Serve them for dinner tonight. Stew prunes till tender, drain, put juice aside, remove the stones and dip each prune in lemon juice. Then roll in powdered sugar. Make a little batter, see to it that the batter is rather stiff. Dip each sugared prune into it. Drop each prune into boiling fat and fry a golden brown. Drain well. Serve with prune juice slightly thickened with cornstarch and a small piece of butter stirred in.

Lending An Ear

Anxious not to miss a word of the President's message as it was read at the opening of Congress, Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts is pictured in an ultra-attentive attitude at a radio in his executive office at Boston. The Governor was one of the many millions who eagerly awaited the President's dictum on the banking situation.

HOLY TRINITY LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. Third Sunday in Lent—Oculi. Sunday school 9:45 (Isaiah 28:1-8). Paul Wilms, Supt.

"The attitude toward temperance should be one of friendliness and eagerness to see it the principle of all living. The Christian spirit is not that of dangerous indulgence in any activity of life. The Holy Bible is our authority for insisting that sobriety be the spirit of any who want to be in sympathy with the plans of God."

"The Holy Scriptures denounce drunkenness and plainly declare its dreadful results. The language of this inspired Word of God is very clearly written. There should be no confusion on this issue. Temperance should be the rule and law of life for every Christian."

Morning worship 11. Sermon: "The Invitation to Win Others."

"The Kingdom of our Lord grew and has grown with power and strength. It moved out upon the world in a very humble way, but its road of progress could lead to no place but victory. It advanced upon the principle of winning others. Every Christian was to be an advance agent and enthusiast for the cause. So the numbers that we added daily to the church soon reached a very large figure."

"The early spirit of the church has not and should not be lost. Its method of propagation is the best that could be devised. Jesus knew how to deal with humanity. Today, there are many who are still to be won for Christ. Every Christian should have the unquestioned confidence that Christ's Gospel is a worthy cause to which to invite others."

The Luther league is attending the C. Y. Federation of Luther leagues at their meeting at St. Luke's church in Youngstown at 3 p. m. Joe Wukotich of Salem will lead the topic in the afternoon program.

Andrew Bible class meets Tuesday evening. Lenten service and meditation Wednesday at 8 p. m.

6:30—Young People. Every young member of our church is invited to be present, as well as those of high school age.

7:30—Evening Worship. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. C. S. Whitacre, of the Bethesda Presbyterian Church. The pastor goes to Hanover to moderate a congregational meeting.

Tuesday, 7:45. The Annie B. Gilbert Missionary society will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. D. C. Rosing, 1075 N. Ellsworth. A very interesting program is planned and everyone is urged to come.

Wednesday, 7:30. Address by the pastor on "Glorious Saviourship" in the Lenten series, "Great Figures in the Birth of the Protestant Church."

Wednesday, 6:00. Annual Covered Dinner of the Trimble Class. Members and guests are cordially invited to be present. The entertainment will follow the mid-week service.

The Methodists, Christians, and our own church are entering into a union pre-Easter services.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY 217 North Lincoln avenue. Morning services at 11 o'clock. Subject: "Matter."

The Golden Text is: "O Lord our God, olden lords beside Thee have had dominion over us; but by Thee only will we men mention Thy name." (Isaiah 26:13.)

Sunday School for pupils up to the age of 20 years at 9:45 a. m. "MATTER" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 19, 1933.

Also broadcast over WJAY Sunday at 11 a. m.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Science and health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mark Baker Elder: "From beginning to end, the Scriptures are full of accounts of the triumph of Spirit, Mind, over matter." (p. 139).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mark Baker Elder: "From beginning to end, the Scriptures are full of accounts of the triumph of Spirit, Mind, over matter." (p. 139).

Tuesday evening cottage prayer service. Place of meeting to be announced later.

Thursday song and praise service in the church at 7:30 p. m. We are expecting visitors from New Waterford and Middleton for the services Sunday. We invite the public to all of our services. Come and worship where the hand of fellowship awaits you.

. . . India Contained Not One-Tenth of the Items Gathered Under the Roofs of Salem's Department Stores

The love of endless variety in new things has proved the motive power prompting discovery throughout the ages. Isabella, Queen of Spain, sold her precious jewels to aid Columbus in his effort to discover a new trade route to India. Believing that such a discovery would place untold riches in merchandise at the disposal of the Spanish nation.

Instead a new world was found.

Yet even Columbus' discoveries of merchandise of the new world never encompassed one-tenth of the items gathered under the roofs of Salem department stores. Here you will find silks from China and Japan . . . rugs from far flung desert looms of Persia and Turkey . . . gold and precious jewels from India and South Africa . . . woolens and pottery from England and France . . . lace from Belgium . . . and countless items of rich and wondrous beauty brought together from the far corners of the earth for your approval and selection and future enjoyment.

These mammoth organizations are not unlike small empires. Their armies of merchants, buyers and salespeople closely watch the horoscope of public desire — sensing and responding to every taste — every fashion — every so-called fad.

Their courteous, skilled attention and tireless efforts to serve and please you. . . the modest remuneration asked for their merchandise . . . the palatial buildings in which their wares are housed for your comfort and convenience . . . denote the thoughtfulness and concerted effort continually at work make your buying a genuine pleasure. Is it any wonder that Salem department stores are numbered among the country's finest?

Salem department stores are your logical trading centers. Support and appreciate them as they deserve.

MOST FAITHFUL FANS
NO MORE DULL PRACTICES

THE TITLE of Salem High's most faithful fan is awarded to Reed Calkins, follower of all interscholastic sports and who has missed few, if any, athletic events involving Salem High in the past several years.

Win or lose, Calkins follows the destinies of Quaker athletes faithfully, wherever they travel. In good weather or bad, he's in the stands at a grid contest or track meet and always is among those present at basketball contests.

Another loyal backer of Salem sports is Dr. R. T. Holzbach, who also, unless an ailing patient or other emergency calls summon him, is always a spectator at scholastic games.

BIFF JONES believes in sugar-coating the tireless practice sessions for his Louisiana State University football team, by keeping the workouts interesting.

That is one of the three fundamentals in coaching, as expressed by the former army mentor.

The others are:

A man should be a student first, then a football player.

Under no condition should a man with an injury be permitted to play.

In connection with the former, the academic requirements for football players at Louisiana State have been raised.

AFTER ONE SEASON here, in which he guided Louisiana State to the co-championship of the southern conference, Jones let it be known that he was pleased with the spirit and co-operation of the school, and that he expected a better team next season.

"When I first came here, I was told that discipline at the school was impossible, but I have found the students as easy to handle as were the cadets at West Point."

Jones had started spring training at the L. S. U. camp, and is concentrating on shifting of players to various positions to determine where they adapt themselves best.

"We are devoting much time to the teaching of fundamentals," he said. "There could be a lot of de-fundamentals and deception but in the end the vote would be overwhelmingly for the fundamentals."

"Later we will be able to spend much time on game scrimmage, which gives us a chance to develop strategy. Strategy is the last step in football training."

"In discussing deception, it should be remembered that many plays which look perfectly obvious may be a complete deception to the two in the slot we are trying to hit."

LOOKING into next season, Jones said he expected to have 60 or 65 candidates on the field. There will be at least four sophomores, perhaps six or seven, on the first team.

He said the schedule this year was harder than last, and "only two games, those with Mississippi State, could be classed as easy ones."

400 To 1 Shots At Agua Caliente Create New U. S. Racing Records

By LOUIS W. BINDMAN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 18.—The two crashing 400 to 1 shots at Agua Caliente which recently sent turfmen scampering for the aspirins and bromides, set a new all-time American record. It was the first time two such long shots won in the same year.

King Jack, which paid $221 for $2 and Augus, which rewarded at $840 were the pair of bookie-busters.

Twenty-one years ago, after wishing Ring won at Latonia to pay $41 to 1, the long shot records were carefully embalmed and relegated to the pigeon-holes to grow musty and yellow. However, when King Jack triumphed to his 400 to 1 decision a few weeks ago, turf statisticians dragged the old record book from its dark confines and subjected it to a gruelling scrutiny. Scarcely had they listed "1933—King Jack—$221 for $2" when Augus plunged them into the depths of dope and detail again.

King Jack, which paid $221 for $2 and Augus, which rewarded at $840 were the pair of bookie-busters.

The highest long shot on record is Robbedon which paid the stupendous sum of $15,000 for approximately $1.30 at Shanghai, China, four years ago. In the same year, in England, a horse named Cooie, which was quoted at $4.0 to 1, galloped home a winner and cashed one 50 cent wager for $1,703.

Another feature of note in the victories of King Jack and Augus is that both were ridden by the same jockey—Vernon Wallis. This jockey had one of the most unique records in American racing. He almost made it a triple when he had the leg up on Fedelis B. in a mad dash to the wire but was out-knocked in the final lap preventing a 112 to 1 pay-off.

Fans at Hialeah Park received the thrill of their lives recently when Sunny World leaped out in front to lead his field for a half mile. Sunny World was quoted at better than 1,000 to 1. He wilted in the final stages of the race to end the thriller.

THRILLING DOPE UPSETS FEATURE STATE TOURNEY

Massillon, Dover Clash In Semi-Finals; Marietta Plays East

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, March 18.—Dover, Massillon, Columbus East, Marietta.

From these four scholastic basketball teams tonight will emerge the new Class A champion of the state.

In the semi-finals this afternoon, Marietta is paired with Columbus East, and Dover will tackle Massillon.

The winners will go into the finals tonight.

Massillon Faces Dover

Both Massillon and Dover were favored by the dopsters—so that their semi-windup battle promises enough action to cheer the heart of even the least enthusiastic of fans.

If either had the better chance, it was Dover. This fighting little quintet became a strong favorite by upsetting the powerful Springfield entry by the one-sided score of 26-17 in the opening round last night.

Previously, Springfield, with its string of 26 victories in 27 starts during the season, was considered almost a certain winner of this year's championship.

Springfield's downfall, however, was no less surprising than Massillon's victory over Akron West, defending titlist. That game was one of the high spots of a stirring day.

Score Tied Seven Times

The score was tied seven times and the lead changed hands on 12 occasions, but Massillon proved its superiority by clinging to a one-point lead in the closing minutes of play. The game was 23 to 27.

Columbus East, always a leader in the annual meet, eliminated Toledo Scott, 32-25, while Marietta won an easy victory from Bellevue, 31-21.

In the Class B division, Henrietta, Delphos, Lancaster St. Marys and Lawrenceburg were the semi-finalists. Henrietta emerged from the opening round by defeating Coventry, 35-25, the result breaking the latter team's 20-game winning streak. Delphos defeated Celina Catholic, 32-21; Lancaster St. Marys beat Strasburg, 28-20, while Lawrenceburg eliminated Racine, 49-38.

Semi-Finals This Afternoon

St. Marys and Lawrenceburg were matched in the Class B semi-final at 2 o'clock this afternoon and Henrietta and Delphos were to meet an hour earlier.

The Class A semi-finals were set for 3 and 4 p. m., Marietta meeting Columbus East in the first game and Dover taking on Massillon in the closing tilt.

The two final games for the championships will be played tonight.

which paid 500 to 1 in old hand-books, the first one being Peytonia, which won at Washington Park in 1894 and the second, Bright Skies, which performed at Oakland in 1909. Unofficial though they are, they paid off. The victories of King Jack and Augus, however, broke an official lapse of 21 years.

$15,000 for $1.30

The highest long shot on record is Robbedon which paid the stupendous sum of $15,000 for approximately $1.30 at Shanghai, China, four years ago. In the same year, in England, a horse named Cooie, which was quoted at $4.0 to 1, galloped home a winner and cashed one 50 cent wager for $1,703.

Another feature of note in the victories of King Jack and Augus is that both were ridden by the same jockey—Vernon Wallis. This jockey had one of the most unique records in American racing. He almost made it a triple when he had the leg up on Fedelis B. in a mad dash to the wire but was out-knocked in the final lap preventing a 112 to 1 pay-off.

Fans at Hialeah Park received the thrill of their lives recently when Sunny World leaped out in front to lead his field for a half mile. Sunny World was quoted at better than 1,000 to 1. He wilted in the final stages of the race to end the thriller.

Iowa Lass Shuns Dolls, Prefers Golf, Loves Baseball, Football

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Found: The "Helen Willis Moody of Golf."

Her name is Edith Estabrook, 11, she's from Dubuque, Iowa, and she says she played her a cruel blow because she isn't a boy.

If she were a boy, little Miss Estabrook contends, she could play baseball and football.

Shuns Dolls

"Play with dolls? Never! The only thing I ever liked to play with except golf sticks was a teddy bear," she said.

She walked out a 200 yard drive to the long fourteenth hole on the Agua Caliente, Mexico, golf course, to the astonishment of older women golfers from whom she won many honors. She has a Babe Ruth punch, a Jack Dempsey smash.

"Oh, Nerz," is the expression when she misses a shot. And much vigor is put into the next shot, which invariably is a good one.

Buying her first clubs at a five-and-ten-cent store Miss Estabrook began to play golf when she was six years old. Her father owns a

ROGERS HORNSBY BACK IN LINEUP WITH CARDINALS

Infield Is Big Problem With St. Louis Team For 1933 Campaign

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

If the St. Louis Cardinals can find the answer to their infield mystery story, featuring the comeback of one of baseball's all-time bat-men Roger Hornsby, they may contribute another sensational chapter to the National league's book of pennant episodes.

Only once in the four recent years in which they finished at the top were the Red Birds favorites before-hand. Due to the big shakeup after their 1931 series victory and consequent difficulties, confidence in the Cardinals this year has been lacking. They were sixth last year but the elements of a winner are now going through the paces at Bradenton, Fla., if only Sergeant "Gaby" Street and his corporals can fuse them.

Cardinals, thanks to their chain-store system and smart trading, have a wealth of young, brilliant pitching talent. Dean, Der-ringer, Carleton, with the veteran Jesse Haines, for right-handed service, and Walker, Hallahan and Mooney, heaving from the port side, make up one of the strongest staffs in either league.

With Jimmy Wilson holding forth behind the bat, aided when necessary by the veteran Bob O'Farrell, the battery department leaves nothing to be desired. Dazzy Vance has signed but he may be traded to the Giants.

But from there on the story becomes more complicated. The loss of Shortstop Charley Gelbert, due to an accidental gunshot wound in the leg, struck the infield a hard blow. Frankie Frisch's protracted holdout meanwhile has upset re-organization plans, under which the one-time Fordham flash is figured for third base and Hornsby for a comeback at second. On top of this the condition of "Sparky" Adams, former regular third baseman, remains problematical due to a weak knee, and the idea persists that John Leonard (Pepper) Martin can be converted into an infielder.

Probable Infield

If a guess had to be made now it is that the infield will start the season with Jimmy Collins on first, Hornsby at second, Gordon Slade or Charley Wilson at short, and Frisch on third.

Camp followers report Hornsby's determination and willingness to work himself back into condition. He is down to 187 pounds and his waistline is narrowing. He is covering his position better than at any time in recent years, though still slow. More important, he still packs his old batting punch. The Cardinals will need plenty of Hornsby wallop.

Martin probably will wind up batting Ernie Ostratt for the centerfield job, flanked in right by George Watkins and in left by Joe Medwick. The 1931 world series hero, no longer trying too hard to live up to his skyrocket reputation, is hustling to get back a regular job. Meanwhile the spotlight is on Medwick, a free swinger who came up last year with a .350 hitting label and has sensational possibilities.

Music Now Used To Teach Golf

By NAN O'REILLY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 18.—If the struggling golfers of the world aren't careful, they will learn to play the darn game whether they like it or not.

To date the average duffer has tried:

Lessons from the professional.

Lessons from the caddy.

Lessons from 477 kind friends, most of them worse than the pupil.

Lessons from films, showing Bobby Jones holding a long putt.

The hip away.

Avoiding the hip away.

Counting ten on the up swing and ten on the down swing, the straight left arm, waggles, no waggles.

Fifty-seven varieties of clubs.

Books numbering 1,422, each contradicting every other one.

Every course within a hundred mile radius; and Giving up the game altogether.

But think you that this is the end? Not by a niblick shot. In Great Britain they have produced "first-class golfing instruction" on gramophone records made by Archie Compston. The instruction deals with the drive, the iron, the approach and the putt. What a sight it would be to take a portable machine to the first tee of a golf club, plant it there, and play out the tune to the bitter end!

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

Whether the broadcasting of sponsored programs originating on United States networks will continue over Canadian stations after April 1, is puzzling chain officials right now.

On that date the ruling of the Canadian Radio commission, which bans price mention and the use of more than 5 per cent of the time of a particular program for advertising continuity, goes into effect.

Three government officials are to talk about unemployment and farm relief legislation in the WABC-CBS Institute of public affairs at 10:15 tonight. They are Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget; R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Rep. Marvin Jones, chairman of the house committee on agriculture.

FATHER, THREE CHILDREN SLAIN

"My wife, Marianne M. S. Friend, formerly Magee, a former Philadelphia girl, died at our residence in Florida December 17 and was later interred at Fernwood cemetery January 7, after a lingering illness. The cause was not known. Amnesia was stated, but I was never satisfied by the statement of the physician."

"She was survived by a four-month-old baby, Kenneth, and two children by a former marriage. Robert, aged eight; Helen, aged 6. My wife's age was 24. She was a graduate of West Philadelphia High school for girls, February class, 1926, and she was also a member of the Camp Fire Girls."

"At the time of her death she was president of the Parent-Teachers' association of the Bryan school, Plant City, Fla."

Native of Ohio
"I am a railway postal clerk with headquarters in New York City, and am a native of Ohio, and survived by my parents, two brothers and a sister."

"I give these correct facts to be used with any news items."

Friend's father, William, and a brother, Earl, are in Philadelphia, having come here from Cincinnati. His mother is in the Ohio city. The father said today that the family had watched Friend closely because he was morose after his wife's death. Lately he seemed more cheerful, the elder Friend declared.

Earl Friend said his brother and the children left one about 9 o'clock last night and "seemed to be all right."

Wise Policewoman Will Dress Well

CHICAGO—It's a wise policewoman who dresses well, in the opinion of Sgt. Harry M. Costello, in charge of Chicago's 33 women officers.

He expressed himself after Commandant Mary Allen, chief of the Women's Auxiliary Police Service of London, said she believed lipstick and kilt curls impair a policewoman's efficiency.

"To limit them in the matter of makeup or to ask them to dress in a manner that would indicate their occupation would reduce their efficiency," Costello said.

Beer Law by Monday Is Congress Goal

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 18.—A beer bill on the law books by Monday night was the aim of congressional leaders today as they arranged weekend conferences to help decide whether the new beverage would contain 3.2 or 3.05 per cent alcohol.

The conferences were necessary because the house had refused to accept senate amendments reducing the alcoholic content, adding wines and prohibiting the sale of the drinks to youths under 16.

House conferees already were at work, formally, but the senate could not officially name its representative in the effort to compromise because it had not been in session since Thursday. Leaders knew, however, that the senate conferees would be. Consequently they made arrangements for the informal discussions so congressional action could be completed early Monday.

What would result, of course, nobody could predict ahead of time.

Roosevelt Laid Plans A Year Ago

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, March 18.—More than a year of study, of consultation, of adjustment of widely varying views, lie behind the vigorous steps President Roosevelt has taken in the last ten days, to lift the country from economic stagnation.

Dr. Raymond H. Moley, one of the president's close advisors, told a forum of business and professional men here last night that work began on the program more than a year ago, even before his active campaign for the presidency had begun. By the time he took office on March 4, he was ready to act, his plans needing only last minute adjustments.

Dr. Moley is a former professor of political economy at Columbia university, and now an assistant secretary in the Roosevelt administration. He spoke at the University of Cincinnati on "Democracy in a Crisis."

Table Strike Plan

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O. March 18.—There will be no "taxpayers strike" in Fayette county at least until after August 1.

Taxpayers of the county have voted to table until that time a resolution calling for such a strike unless costs of government, especially in the county, are reduced.

Jail Plot Nipped

CLEVELAND, March 18.—Finding of three saws hidden in a cell on the fifth floor of the county jail enabled Sheriff John Sullivan and deputies to frustrate a plot of 37 prisoners on the floor to escape.

Five prisoners who had been sentenced to state institutions immediately were sent to those institutions. The others were placed under heavy guard and denied visitors.

Ohio Co-ed Wins

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 18.—An Ohio university co-ed won first place in the annual Ohio women's intercollegiate oratorical contest at Wittenberg college. She is Genevieve Coleman. Lucille Adams, Wittenberg, was second.

More Rain Renews Threats of Floods

(By Associated Press)

Overnight rains, apparently heaviest in the southwestern portion of the state, renewed flood threats today just as Ohio began to feel itself freed from the menace of high waters of the last few days.

A new volume of water was added to streams already overburdened, bringing again the possibility that new acres might be inundated in keeping with thousands of others from which flood waters had begun to recede after forcing hundreds from their homes.

At Cincinnati, 1,400 inches of rain fell within five hours in the early morning today. In a raging torrent just before dawn, because of that, government observers said the Ohio river here would reach a crest of 52 feet—flood stage—sometime Sunday. Until the new rains fell they had confidently predicted the rise would not exceed 50 feet.

And still more rain was in prospect.

Helps Defense

LIMA, O., March 18.—John Dye, 20, Dayton, a defense witness yesterday testified to bolster a defense contention that Loren Truesdale, on trial for murder, was under the influence of narcotics when he confessed he killed his brother Earl and Miss Thelma Woods, Dye, in jail with Loren when he was arrested last Sept. 1, said Truesdale appeared "dopey."

Beat Aged Woman

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 18.—County officials searched today for two youths who beat Mrs. Augusta Schlack, 80, unconscious bound and gagged her, and took $900 that had been withdrawn from a bank for "safekeeping."

The Schlacks live on Pine creek, Scioto county.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas.—Texas has 785 convict prisoners who never will be at liberty again, unless granted clemency. A recent tabulation showed that 237 are sentenced for life. Besides, there are 548 with sentences of more than 50 years, which penologists agree is tantamount to ending their days in prison.

TOMAH, Wis.—Three police dogs, who attacked a farmer after killing his bull, are being sought by authorities here. Philip James reported he drove the dogs away when they rushed toward him after he had found them attacking the bull.

Here and There About Town

Sermons on "Christ's Coming"

Beginning Sunday evening, Rev. C. F. Bailey, pastor of the First Friends church, will preach a series of five sermons on the "Second Coming of Jesus Christ." These will be concluded on April 16, Easter Sunday night.

Here are the subjects which Rev. Bailey plans to discuss: "The Sun Dial of Prophecy or What Is It?" "Missing the Rapture or the Marriage Supper of the Lamb?" "The Period of Jacob's Trouble." "The Clash of Nations," and "Looking Onto Him Whom They Have Pierced."

Motorists Injured Slightly

Walter Irving, his wife and one woman passenger of Detroit, were slightly injured when the automobile they were riding in turned over after the wheels had struck a soft berm on the Lincoln highway, south of Lisbon, yesterday afternoon. After the car had been towed to the Grate garage here, the party continued on to Pittsburgh.

SPEED ON PEACE PLANS IS URGED

Hitler, are to be important topics of discussion.

(Premier Daladier of France announced last night that unless MacDonald flew from Rome to England, he would stop in Paris, probably Tuesday, to discuss the results of the home conversations. Earlier it was announced Daladier planned to go to England next week.)

Wasting No Time

Mussolini is wasting no time in starting his talks with the British statesmen. He will be at Ostia, at the mouth of the Tiber river, to meet them and the prime minister's daughter when they arrive at noon by plane from Genoa.

The conversations are considered highly important here as an effort to avert European nations lining up in two great alliances against each other. Failure in the view of Italian officials, may mean a lining up of the Fascist nations, Germany, Hungary and Italy, against France and her eastern allies, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

One of the things it was believed Premier Mussolini may decide to do is to throw his influence behind efforts to smooth over the troubles between France and Germany, aroused by the demonstrations of Hitler's Nazis on the western frontier.

"42nd Street," With All-Star Cast, Opens at State Sunday

BEBE DANIELS and WARNER BAXTER in "42nd STREET"

"FORTY-SECOND STREET," the talking screen's latest musical, starring 14 of motion picture's leading players, is the headline attraction at the State theater next week appearing at the local playhouse three days, starting Sunday.

Today's Attractions
"Forty-Second Street" succeeds "What! No Beer?" as the State's feature, the laugh opus, starring the famous-nosed Jimmy Durante and the sober-faced Buster Keaton, along with a galaxy of others almost equally famed, finishing its two-day run today.

The Grand has a thrilling and humorous mystery-comedy, "The Penguin Pool Murder," showing Edna May Oliver, James Gleason, Mae Clarke and Robert Armstrong as the stars. It plays here today and Sunday.

Appearance at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of "42nd Street" is a distinct "scoop" for the Walken brothers over other theaters of the Northeastern Ohio district. Just released by Warner Bros. it stars such famed performers of the screen and stage as Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ruby Keeler (Mrs. Al Johnson), Una Merkel, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, George E. Stone, Eddie Nugent, Allen Jenkins, Robert McWade and Henry B. Walthall.

Popular Songs Are Featured
You've already become acquainted with some of the song hits which will be vocalized and played in this film. Some of them are "Shuffle Off to Buffalo," "I'm Young and Healthy," "You're Getting to be a Habit With Me," and the title song "42nd Street." The dance numbers which accompany the songs are previewed among the most novel and most intricate ever attempted for either stage or screen.

Cary Grant, who scored with Salem moviegoers in his fine performance in "The Woman Accused" this week, returns to co-star with Sylvia Sydney in "Madame Butterfly," the State's attraction Wednesday and Thursday. Supporting Grant is an all-star cast which includes Charles Fuggle, Irving Pichel, Edmund Breese and Sheila Terry.

Tracy In New Film
The popular and rapid-fire Lee Tracy heads the list of performers enacting roles in "The Half Naked Truth," at the State on Friday and Saturday. It's a story about inner workings of press-agency with Tracy supported by Lupe Velez, Eugene Pallette, Frank Morgan, Robert McKenzie and James Donahoe.

CHILTON, Wis.—Documents of historic interest in the collection of George C. Hume here include a letter written by Jefferson Davis, a personal expense account of Zachary Taylor when he was an army lieutenant, and deeds and wills executed in colonial days.
